

POLICE UNEARTH ALCOHOL DEN ADJACENT TO RIVERSIDE PARK

FIND HUNDREDS OF EMPTY BOTTLES, DRAINED BY THIRSTY ONES.

PERFUMES AND A DOZEN OTHER VARIETY OF PREPARATIONS USED.

INVESTIGATION OF FIGHT LEADS TO DISCOVERY AND THREE ARRESTS.

The discovery of hundreds of empty bottles which held a distilled perfume, alcohol, spirits of wine, and various concoctions, different others and some unknown medicine in small bottles, hidden in the park, has interested city officials as a wholesale stand for the selling and drinking of these intoxicating drinks.

The finding of the hideous den by police was made yesterday afternoon. Lieutenant Albert Cluster and John Smith were detailed to Riverside park to head up the search. The search of the park, starting at the three o'clock hour, netted the police 150 bottles of various liquors and tonics. Some 20 men were engaged in a fight in the park.

The fight was over when the officers arrived, and those taking part had disappeared. Witnesses say the fight was formed the police that several of the men had entered a building on Water street. Going in the building the police found Harry Martin, who gave his home as New York. Martin was identified as the leader of the fight and also as the men who jumped in the Ohio River and were drowned by the drowning Stanley and Joshua.

W. H. Harris of Pittsburgh and J. B. Harris of Charleston were also arrested on a vagrancy charge. Gray having appeared to the police he had been drinking heavily, said Harris as one who took him to the police.

Harris, who is a native of Wheeling, was home because suspicious in the city and was urged to have helped start the fight. Stating the police coming, Hartman took to his car. Siding his auto, a witness to the proceedings informed Policeman Cluster that Hartman was the man who was continually hawking to the various men in the park, and said they thought he had been drinking away or selling liquor.

After a short search through alleys, Policeman Cluster found Hartman in a stable in the rear of Water street as he was about to "pitch" a bottle of Absolut used for bathing and massaging and containing 10 percent alcohol. He was also placed under arrest.

OHIO TOWN EXCITED AT POLICE PURSUE AND SHOT AT THE FLEEING TOURING CAR

OWNER ASCERTAINED BUT NOT WHETHER MACHINE WAS LOANED TO THIEF OR STOLEN

Bellair police are looking for a man who ransacked the home of F. H. Kratz, at Mt. Zion, six miles southwest of Bellair, Wednesday night and who escaped into Bellair in a Chevrolet automobile after being interrupted at the job by Harry Kratz, son of the owner of the home, who is absent in Nebraska. Bellair police, after receiving telephone call from Harry Kratz, took up the trail and pursued the thief through the main streets of Bellair to Forty-seventh street where the driver abandoned his car and escaped to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near the town.

The chase through town caused considerable excitement, as the police fired several shots after the fleeing automobile.

Investigation showed that the Chevrolet is the property of Joe Kunkel, who was at work last night on a railroad work gang. The police intend questioning him this morning to determine whether the automobile was loaned or stolen.

The Spirit of the Fair

"As to its spirit we wonder how many people realize that this huge institution is conducted mainly in the interest of the public good, that it is non-profit-making, and that all profits derived from its operation are devoted to improving and building it up." The directors, comprising nineteen of the most successful business men of this district, devote great amount of time and effort to its business without any compensation, and the officers with the exception of the secretary and his assistant, who give all their time to it, serve without salary. Its spirit is the true civic spirit of helpfulness, of achievement for community and state good, with no private interest to serve and no private gain to insure.

"The purpose of the State Fair can be summed up in one word—education. To add to the sum of human knowledge, year by year, particularly as it relates agriculture and kindred pursuits, but also to many other lines of endeavor, is the reason for the existence of the modern fair. Incidentally, it provides entertainment of a varied nature which also has its distinct and value.

"The State Fair is a great educational institution. From the first modest exhibition of a few pumpkins, some live stock and a sundry assortment of products, it has developed into a huge, many-sided enterprise, any one phase of which would be a big undertaking in itself. It makes an appeal to all classes and all tastes. It has added to the original agricultural fair features, many experimental displays of industrial manufacturing and mercantile progress. The fair no longer appeals exclusively to the farmer. It attracts those of all other pursuits as well. It is rapidly approaching the point where it mirrors the development of all lines of human achievement, and as there is no limit to the development of man's ever-expanding field of interests, the scope of these exhibitions. That is why the fair, no matter how old, is always new. There never was a greater failure than the expression one sometimes hears: Oh, when you see one fair you see them all. As a matter of fact, no fair is like any that have gone before, because it is a living thing that must either grow or die.

"The possibilities of our own fair have scarcely been tapped. Merchants, manufacturers, coal men, farm organizations, etc., have hardly begun the golden opportunity that is theirs to bring their message or their product directly before a hundred thousand persons in a week. With the new system of state roads, opening up all sections of the state to easy travel, this attendance should be enormously increased within the next few years."

"As a civic enterprise that contributes to the welfare of the city and state, as to the education of citizens in their civic value, as a means of bringing farmer and city dweller into closer touch and sympathy, and as a medium for advertising the city and state and their resources to all the world, the State Fair is worth the support and co-operation of every man and woman in the state.

"The membership of the Chamber of Commerce and all other citizens are urged to boost and support the coming State Fair, that it will be a greater success this year than ever before."

COLORED PEOPLE IN ANNUAL OUTING

It required ten coaches on a special train over the Pennsylvania Railroad Tuesday to carry the crowds to and from Rock Springs park when the annual outing of the colored people of this vicinity took place. The affair, according to some who attended, was a complete success, it being reported that at least five hundred persons attended the picnic. This is the first time in years that the colored folks have given a picnic at Rock Springs park and they were counting on holding the affair elsewhere, but when the P. R. R. announced that they would run a special excursion to the park for the benefit of the picnickers arrangements were then made to hold the event at the old time resort up the river. Those who took part included colored folks from Wheeling, Warwood, Martins Ferry, Bridgeport, Bellaire and others near by cities.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

Authorities at the Ohio Valley General hospital said last night that there had been no change in the condition of Dr. G. A. Aschmann, who is quite seriously ill at that institution. Dr. Aschmann several weeks ago underwent a very severe operation, and since that time had been much improved. Still a little later the distressing announcement was made that he was seriously ill again, and generally he has shown no improvement since he suffered the relapse.

Governor Morgan Attacks Head of the United Mine Workers

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Governor Morgan today issued a statement replying to the criticisms made yesterday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who charged that the miners of West Virginia are not affiliated with his organization. Lewis offers to co-operate in having the miners return to their homes if the miners are hypocritical.

"Never at any time did he offer assistance until he knew federal troops had been requested," Governor Morgan says.

The governor says that Lewis is trying to prove an alibi and that he must bear the responsibility that follows leadership.

The statement follows:

"The position taken by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, referring to co-operation in having the miners return to their homes until at any time did he offer his assistance until he knew that federal troops had been requested to suppress the insurrection. In truth his agents in this district were instrumental in getting miners out of the mines without any consideration of the original march after the men had agreed to disperse and return to their homes following an address by Mother Jones, Baldwin-Felts detective employed.

Shame on Them.

PERHAPS there are a few mothers who do not know the virtues of Fletcher's Castoria. Perhaps there are a few who know that there are imitations on the market, and knowing this demand Fletcher's. It is to ALL motherhood, then, that we call attention to the numerous imitations and counterfeits that may be set before them.

It is to all motherhood everywhere that we ring out the warning to beware of the "Just-as-good". For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been an aid in the upbuilding of our population; an aid in the saving of babies.

And yet there are those who would ask you to try something new. Try this. Try that. Even try the same remedy for the tiny, scarcely breathing, babe that you in all your robust womanhood would use for yourself. Shame on them.
